Aesir Interactive Makes Tracks for Publishing with “Open World Survival Craft” IP EverRail

Ort:	Ort Munich, Germany
Veröffentlicht von:	community@aesir-interactive.com

Aesir Interactive, the studio behind the successful Police Simulator: Patrol Officers and the highly anticipated open-world adventure game The Legend of Khiimori, has announced the new original IP, EverRail.

Move or freeze - How far would you dare to go when stopping means death?

EverRail is an open world survival crafting odyssey in a frozen wasteland where movement is survival. Ride the rails on a roaring battery powered train, glide through the air, brave the cold on foot, and make every decision count.

The world has frozen over, and your train is your last lifeline. Build it, expand it, protect it, because if the battery runs dry, everything ends.

Aesir Interactive enters Publishing

In collaboration with Icebird Studios, Aesir Interactive is taking steps into publishing for the first time in its history. With over a decade in the games industry as a developer and a well-established relationship with diverse publishers, the Munich-headquartered team is ready to take the lead and realize their own passion project.

“We are proud to announce that Aesir Interactive is taking the next bold step in its more than 10-year company history by entering publishing! The exciting IP EverRail and the cooperation with Icebird Studios is an ideal opportunity and partnership.”

Wolfgang Emmer, CEO Aesir Interactive

Developed by Icebird Studios

Icebird Studios is part of the Aesir Interactive Group and developer of their original IP EverRail. Icebird Studios represents the same high standards of quality, sharing the same corporate values, and willingness to work closely and transparently with their community to develop better games.
